

ABSTRACT

Methods and apparatus in a partitionable computing system. A processor of a partition and a transmitter can configure and transmit a data packet that includes a source and a destination address. A routing device can have a port communication with the transmitter.

5 The port can have a firewall associated therewith.